

The greatness and honour of man reside in purity, truthfulness, benevolence, virtue, and.....

Abdu'l-Bahá

Translated

[Extract from a Tablet of 'Abdu'l-Bahá]

The greatness and honour of man reside in purity, truthfulness, benevolence, virtue, and constancy, not in earthly wealth and riches. Should a soul succeed in rendering a signal service to the world of humanity, and in particular to the land of Persia, he will be a leader among leaders, and among those of preeminent rank he will be held most dear. This indeed is abounding wealth! This indeed is abundant prosperity! This indeed is everlasting riches!

---'Abdu'l-Bahá

TRANSLATION